ABOUT:

"Coronation Processional" is a fantastic new educational piece for beginning band students, inspired by the 2023 coronation of King Charles III. The range fits comfortably for any 1st year player, using only the first six notes normally taught on their respective instrument. The style, however, is closer to an "older" band using traditional European-style melody and accompaniment.

Every section "gets a go" at melody or featured part. There are plenty of tutti articulations and dynamic contrasts for the most effective use of teaching and rehearsal time. Rhythmically, there is one constant unison theme for all wind players. Some percussion parts include 4 straight 8th notes.

Wind parts are heavily doubled to help with sections that are still developing. Low brass and woodwind parts are entirely in unison helping to increase the fullness of their sound. There are intentionally no split parts at all throughout this piece - the comfortable ranges make this unnecessary.

As a percussionist, I tend to write plenty of parts to add excitement and give them more opportunities. I also like to include a mini-ensemble section. This section, at measure 29, can be omitted and still works musically. Many of the parts are optional if you are short on players. It will sound full with 2 players, and will provide more performance opportunity for larger sections.

DURATION: 1'47"
